

About Us

Hi-Lo prides itself on its versatility, not only stocking standard gas welding and cutting equipment, but also its capability in being able to produce special fittings for adapting non-standard equipment. The Hi-Lo brand, which has one of its manufacturing facilities based in York operates with state of the art CNC machines and is capable of producing high quality cutting nozzles and brass fittings for a wide range of applications, from the fabrication shop to heavy steel mill equipment.

With advanced technology and ultra modern manufacturing techniques, we are able to offer to you the most reliable, heavy duty and hard wearing products. Also the confidence that you are dealing with a market leader when it comes to safety. We now operate over a dozen franchise agreements with the major suppliers of welding equipment and consumables in the U.K.

Still a family owned and operated business, when Managing Director Steve Gavins retired in 2012, the mantle was picked up by Steve's son Chris. Since then Hi-Lo has continued to go from strength to strength.
